

Gregor Craigie is a friendly public radio journalist, currently hosting CBC Radio One's On the Island in Victoria, BC. He is generally well-liked and known for being fair, but will occasionally push people on political and social issues – while maintaining his manners, of course. Inspired by his interest in earthquakes, Craigie's non-fiction book On Borrowed Time was a finalist for the inaugural Writers' Trust Balsillie Prize for Public Policy. In an effort to stay healthy and as a tiny offering in the fight against climate change, Craigie bikes to work daily.
